Supporting Transgender and Gender Diverse Youth

May 5, 2017 - 9:00 a.m. to 12:45 p.m.

CORA Conference Center

Presenters:

Samantha Taylor, LSW, M.Ed., is the Clinic Coordinator at the Gender & Sexuality Development Clinic. She is the initial contact for families who are interested in coming to the clinic for an evaluation or need additional supportive services. Samantha helps coordinate care for families as well as provide information to schools, behavioral health professionals, and medical teams. She also coordinates and leads trainings for schools on how to support gender non-conforming students and how teachers and supportive school staff can create gender inclusive classrooms.

Katelyn Regan, LSW, M.Ed., is the clinical social worker at the Gender and Sexuality Development Clinic. She works with transgender and gender diverse youth and their families. She provides one-on-one psychotherapy, connects families to trans-competent care close to home, and schedules medical appointments for the clinic's 500+ families. Katelyn also provides education and training to medical, counseling and education professionals about the complexities of gender identity and how providers can become more inclusive in their respective practices.

Purpose:

During this training, participants will learn and review language used to discuss gender. The presenters will describe the developmental stages of gender identity as it applies to school-aged children. Participants will also learn new ways to support transgender youth within medical, educational and behavioral health environments. Finally, the presenters will discuss the referral and assessment process at The Gender and Sexuality Development Clinic to give participants a greater understanding of the work we do at CHOP. Participants should leave with a greater understanding of gender, how to support the youth they work with and referral/resource options for getting extra support.

Objectives: As a result of this interactive workshop, participants will be able to:

- Define gender identity, gender expression and transgender
- List two stages of gender identity development
- Identify one step of the assessment process at the Gender and Sexuality Development clinic at CHOP
- Name two referral/resource options to provide to transgender youth and/or their family

Credits Offered:

- NBCC: 3.5
- Psychology Credits: 3.5
- SW, MFT & PC: 3.5

Intended Audience: This program will benefit Psychologists, Social Workers, Mental Health Counselors, Educators, Principals, Teachers, Graduate Students, and other practitioners within mental health and education who provide direct services and/or parent/teacher consultation for this population.
