

Lorraine Pellicano

1320 S. Cleveland Street
Philadelphia, Pa. 19146
215 280-6998
ljpellicano@icloud.com

PROFILE

I am a certified school psychologist, presently retired but interested in part-time employment.

EXPERIENCE

School psychologist, School District of Philadelphia, 2004 – 2017

Performed psycho-educational evaluations with pre-school and school age children. Areas of assessment included cognitive, visual-motor, achievement, social/emotional, adaptive. Knowledgeable in assessing children with learning and intellectual disabilities, autism, emotional disabilities and social and behavioral issues. Determined eligibility for special educational services, and educational needs of students and made recommendations for programming. Summarized data and information in a written report. Collaborated with parents, regular and special education teachers to promote better academic progress, emotional health and behavior.

Adjunct instructor, Camden County Community College 2000-2004

Taught introduction to psychology. Provided overview of the history of psychology, methods and findings and major areas of study.

School psychologist, Reads Inc. Philadelphia, Pa. 1986-2004

Performed psycho-educational evaluations with school age children. Primarily assessed children with learning disabilities. Met with parents and teachers to disseminate evaluation results; provided recommendations for better academic, emotional and behavioral outcomes.

EDUCATION

Rutgers University—Camden, New Jersey, B.A. degree psychology 1972.

Bradley University—Peoria, Ill. M.A. degree, general psychology 1973.

Bryn Mawr College—Bryn Mawr, Pa. Certification in school Psychology 1979-1983